

About dr. Andrej Kovacic

Assist. prof. Andrej Kovacic, Ph.D., has a University degree in Economics, a Master's degree (MBS) and a Ph.d. in Sociology.

He worked internationally as a consultant or CEO for three multinational companies (RE Invest, Salesianer Miettex and AXA Insurance). Within his research and consulting company CEOS Ltd. he has analyzed over 150 studies, supported 30 international companies and helped more than 100 personal coaching/therapy clients internationally. In 2013 he accepted a position at the Faculty for Media.

He is an author of several academic articles and now as a recognized trainer trains yearly more than 300 hours of seminars and trainings in companies, three faculties and a school for higher education. In addition he is involved in many non-profit activities in SENT (apply for help as a non-profit organisation) and supports academic journal IIASS initiative. He is an active coach and therapist and helps several executive and personal coaching clients to develop their potential (If you need help you can apply as an individual).

For the last two decades, Andrej Kovacic has served as an advisor to many leaders internationally continuously improving and testing his personal skills to make better employees, relationships, contributions and better life. On this journey he has learned from the best and improved several communication techniques to provide the basis of PRO-ACT.

